Texas Business Group on Health Announces New Directors and Officers

Texas employers promote healthcare quality, efficiency, and accountability across the state

DALLAS – July 16, 2018 – The non-profit Texas Business Group on Health (TBGH) announced the election of new officers and directors. TBGH is a statewide coalition of public and private Texas employers focused on enhancing the quality, efficiency, and accountability of healthcare provided to Texas workers across the state.

New officers for 2018-2019 include: Chair: Andrea Cockrell, Administrative Services Manager, City of Plano; and Secretary/Treasurer: David Whitt, Employee Wellness Manager, City of San Antonio.

Directors continuing in their roles include: Judy Berger, Senior Manager, Benefits Planning, Southwest Airlines; Chris Skisak, Executive Director, Houston Business Coalition on Health; Julie Tatum, Senior Benefits Manager, Whataburger Restaurants, LLC; and Marianne Fazen, TBGH President and CEO.

“TBGH serves as the leading organization for businesses that are interested in education on best practices for their organization, healthcare innovation in their benefits offerings, collaboration across businesses serving various roles in the healthcare industry, and development of leadership skills for all levels of employees,” said Andrea Cockrell.

About TBGH

Texas Business Group on Health (TBGH) was founded in 1985, as a non-profit statewide business association dedicated to promoting healthcare innovation, accountability, and value in support of healthy, productive workforce. TBGH members include nearly 300 Texas employers and health services partners who participate in community-based employer coalitions, including the Dallas- Fort Worth Business Group on Health, Houston Business Coalition on Health, and San Antonio Business Group on Health. TBGH serves as a valuable resource for Texas employers in health benefits design and healthcare purchasing for employees. TBGH also advocates employers’ interests in state healthcare legislation and policy development.
